

SATURDAY, JUNE 11, 2005, AT 12:47 PM - Telecom municator Darcie Beernink

DISPATCHER: Police Department.

RADTKE: Good Afternoon. Jeff at US Cellular calling.

DISPATCHER: Hi.

RADTKE: I'm trying to find a telephone that might have been turned in down there Wednesday night or after.

DISPATCHER: Okay, let me just go on that screen.

RADTKE: Even if there was one turned in. I don't know, a lot of times they don't turn up, but

DISPATCHER: Okay.

RADTKE: It never hurts to check, right.

DISPATCHER: Sure, alright go ahead.

RADTKE: Urn, there should have been, looking for a LT6100 phone. I've got the serial number. Has anything been turned in since Wednesday night.

DISPATCHER: Urn, let me see here. Wednesday was on what day? Oh,

RADTKE: God, the 11th or 10th 8th?

DISPATCHER; The 8th?

RADTKE: Sounds about right, huh.

DISPATCHER: Okay. Urn, no we have something from the 7th, however that was a LD4010.

RADTKE: Okay.

DISPATCHER: And that's it.

RADTKE: The 7th was the last one, huh.

DISPATCHER: Yup that's it.

RADTKE: Okay. Thank You.

DISPATCHER: Sure.

RADTKE: Bve-bve,
