

THURSDAY, JUNE 9, 2005, AT 18:01 PM - Telecommunicator Chris Damkot

DISPATCHER: Police Department.

RADTKE: Hi, Jeff at US Cellular calling. How's it going.

DISPATCHER: Good, how are you?.

RADTKE; Wonderful, Hey, we're trying to track down - anybody turn a cell phone in there tonight? Or during the last day or so.

DISPATCHER: Urn, just a minute.

RADTKE: That's what we're trying to figure out here.

Transfer to the front desk Telecommunicator - Kelli Kisiolek

DISPATCHER: Sheboygan Police Department, how can I help you?

RADTKE: Hello, Jeff at US Cellular calling.

DISPATCHER: Hi.

RADTKE: I'm working with a customer here whose cell phone seems to be missing and we're trying to figure out if somebody turned one in down there today or in the last 24 hours or not.

DISPATCHER: But you know the property girl is already gone.

RADTKE: Oh, that's right. What time is that, 4:00 pm.?

DISPATCHER: Yen, by 4:00 pm, she's usually gone.

RADTKE: And guys don't log it at the desk<sup>9</sup>

DISPATCHER: No, no. And we start at 3:00 pm

RADTKE: Oh, that goes downstairs. This would have happened last night, maybe.

DISPATCHER; Yeah.

RADTKE: Yeah, okay.

DISPATCHER: I wouldn't be able to tell him. I'm sorry.

RADTKE: Property room, tomorrow morning, huh.

DISPATCHER: You got it.

RADTKE: Okay I'll check with them in the morning.

DISPATCHER: Airightee. Thanks, bye.

RADTKE: Okay, see ya. Bye.
